EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION PROGRAM

When Adriana Pinzon lived in Cali, Colombia she worked for three years as a teacher in a jardin de infantes, which means nursery school. She lived alone for a few years in Catalonia, Spain, taking care of children in a private home, and then joined her son and daughter in Florida.

Three years ago, a friend recommended The English Center (TEC). She enrolled to study Level 4 English, but her family needed help, so she stopped attending. She took care of her granddaughter full-time. Now she is registered in the Early Childhood Education Program in the morning and takes care of her granddaughter after class

Adriana says she chose to enroll in the child care program to get certified because she loves children. "They are funny and interesting. I feel happy and alive during the time I spend with children. I am also happy with my teacher, Ms. Vera Lamar."

When asked what she thought about TEC she said, "The school is good. You can learn English. The schedule varies and meets the needs of all people. If you want to learn, you will learn. If you don't study, you will not learn."

Her vision is in one year to open a child care center to continue enjoying time with children.
